ABSTRACT:
The review is devoted to the dictionary of linguoculturological terms; such type of dictionary is innovative one and presumably is the first dictionary of key terms and concepts of linguoculturology, both in the native and world science. Linguoculturology is considered in the dictionary as a direction which studies the interaction of language and culture as the semiotic systems and at the same time as a single holistic phenomenon. The dictionary consists of 25 terms which constitute the conceptual core of this subject – such as archetype, code of culture, cultural connotation, symbol, stereotype, linguistic worldview etc., and their explanation. The dictionary is the result of research of the basic concepts of this field of knowledge and their distancing from the similar terms and concepts of adjacent linguistic disciplines.
